

Vodafone Group Plc.
Vodafone House, The Connection
Newbury, Berkshire RG14 2FN
England

To whom it might concern.

Dear Sirs,

In Italy we are facing a problem regarding an antenna in the outskirts of Rome, in a neighbourhood called Casal Brunori.

Vodafone Omnitel Italy, Viale della grande Muraglia, 75, 00144 – Rome, has decided to install another antenna in Casal Brunori. Despite the disagreement of the citizens, who would prefer to have it installed outside the city, Vodafone insists in wanting to have it right in this neighbourhood. Casal Brunori is a place that has schools and parks where children use to go playing and having an antenna here could cause health problems to us and our children. We are not willing to trade the health of our children for a mobile notch.

Moreover, the site that has been chosen for the antenna is not esthetic since the neighbourhood is small and the block of flats are built on three floors. A high antenna would ruin the view since it would be higher than the buildings. Also, the value of the flats would decrease significantly.

The Italian company, Vodafone, wants to move forward since they are convinced that they are right and following the Italian law. However, the Italian citizens are against this installation and are ready to take actions against Vodafone. So far, we have already collected more than 1.000 names against this action. In addition, we have hired a lawyer who has prepared a letter of opposition that has been sent to the Municipality of Rome.

We would appreciate an answer from you in a near future. Please find my contact details below.

Best regards,

Cap. Filippo Cioffi

Rappresentative of "The Comitato di Quartiere di Casal Brunori"

Tel. +39 368 3791561 - comitato@casalbrunori.org

Address: Via Carmelo Maestrini, 450 - 00128 Rome, Italy

